The Confederation of Danish Industry's Productivity award goes to Solar A/S in 2010 due to remarkable results in making the company more efficient.

Solar is able to present positive numbers despite a decrease in revenue.

The company believes that the good result is due to a targeted effort towards achieving higher efficiency. "In my opinion, the result is almost exclusively based on us completing an ambitious project when implementing lean", says CEO Flemming Tomdrup, Solar A/S.

Doubled reliability of delivery

The company has increased its reliability of delivery with 100%

Management leads the way

The ruling committee highlights that an important part of working with Lean, has been the management leading the way and striving to complete the project during the past three years.

"There has been a special attention to the job of improving the entire management team, while implementing improvements in the entire organisation, at the same time", says Productivity Manager of the Confederation of Danish Industry Jens Kristian Jørgensen, who handed over the award to Solar.
